The game is inspired by Minecraft and has a ton of different features that are guaranteed to entertain you! The towns are procedurally generated, full of unique stuff, and your economy is an A.I. controlled. The Towns - Over 50 different maps with a variety of settings - Are full of unique buildings and other objects - Are always different, they may feature farms, mines, guilds, stables, universities, theaters, fortresses, and quite a few more types of buildings - Add spice and spice into your trade routes by using tolls - Has shops, but also houses, places of worship, stalls, ammo stalls and pretty much everything else you can think of "THE AMAZING" -10/10 This is such a great game. It reminds me a lot of Cube World. Its a bit slow at first but it doesn't take much of your time because the city is so big. This game is extremely fun for me and I hope the developers keep on working on this game. Great Game BUT... By jeffrey on 06.24.2017 A good game, but... By Irek69 on 06.24.2017 City building game with many settings and things to do, but the main feature is the tolls and how they can give a boost to certain objects. Like Cube World... By Liruf on 12.24.2017 It reminds me a lot of Cube world. The models are good, if you like the general look of minecraft. It offers a lot to do, you can travel to almost every kind of world, which is really good. It gets more creative every time you travel to a new world. Sneaky mouse-controlled merchants By zappo on 12.24.2017 There's too much in here to explain, I'm sure. First of all, I do not like control schemes involving a mouse. I have most games turn off mouse controls completely, which you can do in the game settings. One way around that is you can make a control scheme with mouse keys where you can move your cursor in any direction but only jump with the right mouse button. This can be done at any resolution, and it saves a ton of time. I found this feature in DayZ. I do not know about any other games that have mouse keys
